

CULLODEN

ESTATE AND SPA

Your Wedding

Couple's Names: William and Kirsty McDowell

Venue: Culloden Estate & Spa

Wedding Date: 26th March 2016

William and Kirsty first met at a horse yard in 2001 where Kirsty and William's sister both had pony's. Although Kirsty is still very involved with horses, William doesn't share the same passion.

William proposed in the Dome at Victoria Square on New Year's Eve 2012. He presented a diamond engagement ring from Lunn's in Belfast and following the proposal the couple celebrated with friends at a New Year's Eve ball at Titanic Belfast.

Why did the couple choose the Culloden Estate and Spa? Did they have a specific theme for their wedding day?

William and Kirsty describe falling in love with the Culloden Estate and Spa because of the picturesque surroundings and the grand ballroom. They also felt that it was a convenient location for their guests, friends and family. Although the couple didn't have one specific theme for the celebrations, Kirsty described the look and feel of the day as soft glamour with candelabras dressed with flowers for each table.

Where were the bride's dress and bridesmaids dresses from?

Kirsty's dress was from Pronuptia Bridal and was by Justin Alexander. The dress was suggested for Kirsty by the bridal consultant which she instantly fell in love with. The bridesmaids' dresses were from Coast and were soft lavender/grey colour.

And not forgetting the groom...

William wore a Navy, tailor-fitted suit with a soft grey check tweed waistcoat and chocolate brown brogues. The Groomsmen were the same except that they wore waistcoats matching their suits.

What advice would William and Kirsty give to other couples planning their wedding?

William - Have the wedding you both want. Plenty will offer their opinion, but go with what feels right for you. It's your wedding after all.

Kirsty - Make sure to enjoy the planning, as the day itself really does fly by. But take a step back now and again to take it all in and enjoy every second of the day.
